

Masseria Due Torri

Getting to Puglia

Masseria Due Torri is situated in the countryside on the hills overlooking the beautiful historic port of Monopoli.

Bari and Brindisi are our nearest airports. Bari is 50 km and Brindisi is 70km and the drive from either takes about 40 minutes.

Both airports are busy with many domestic and overseas flights to and from many major European cities with both larger airlines and budget carriers. They are regional hubs for Ryanair which flies to about 30 European destinations including northern and eastern Europe.

In the UK Ryanair fly from Stansted to Bari and Brindisi. Easyjet fly from Gatwick to both Bari and Brindisi. BA fly to Bari from Gatwick.

At certain times of the year there will not necessarily be flights every day to the same airport so you might fly into one airport and out of another to obtain more convenient flight times or better prices.

You might also consider flying to Naples, Rome or Pescara from a regional airport such as Manchester, Birmingham, East Midlands, Liverpool, Edinburgh etc in the UK. Naples and Pescara are 3 hours 15 minutes drive and Rome 5 hours 15 minutes all through wonderful scenery on good roads in a part of the country you might not otherwise see.

There is an excellent road network and driving is easy from the north, either following the Adriatic coast or taking the Mediterranean coast road and cutting across country south of Rome to Bari and then south along the East coast. We also have good connections with the south and the west of the country.

We are well served with trains and coaches with excellent services to major cities from Monopoli.

There are good ferry links from Bari, Brindisi and Taranto to Greece, Albania and further afield.

We recommend car hire but can provide a taxi service to and from the airport, railway or port or for day trips or to restaurants etc. If your flight arrives in the dark we can pick up and take you to a car hire agency in daylight the next day. We also have bikes available.
